Faculty Development Program on "Course Content, Rubrics and Assessment Automation using AI Tools"
Date: 17th – 18th March 2026	Venue: Centre for Emerging Technologies
Time: 09:00am – 05:00pm	Event : Hands on Workshop - FDP
No. of Participants: 30	Event Coordinators: Dr. Vinay K S

1. Objectives of the event:
   - To familiarize faculty members with the use of Artificial Intelligence (AI) in academic workflows
   - To enhance teaching effectiveness through AI-enabled course design and delivery
   - To develop competency in creating AI-based rubrics and assessment frameworks
   - To introduce advanced AI concepts such as Retrieval-Augmented Generation (RAG) and Agentic AI
   - To promote innovative and technology-driven teaching-learning practices

2. Event Details
   a. Brief description of the event

   RV Institute of Management organized a two-day Faculty Development Program (FDP) on "Course Content, Rubrics and Assessment Automation using AI Tools" on 17th and 18th March 2026 at the Emerging Technology Laboratory, RVIM Campus .

   The FDP focused on equipping faculty members with practical knowledge and hands-on experience in using AI tools for academic purposes. The program included sessions on advanced prompting techniques, AI-based teaching design, RAG pipelines, Agentic AI, and AI-assisted assessment systems.

   Participants actively engaged in designing course content, generating multimedia learning materials, and developing evaluation rubrics using AI tools. The program emphasized experiential learning through demonstrations, hands-on exercises, and feedback sessions.

   b. Brief profile the resource person/s

   Mr. Vignesh P
   AI Enablement Strategist with expertise in applying Artificial Intelligence in academic and business environments. He specializes in AI-driven content generation, academic workflow automation, and emerging AI frameworks.

   Dr. Mahesh N.S.
   Consultant and Trainer with extensive experience in academic training and industry practices. He has expertise in teaching design, assessment systems, and the integration of AI tools in higher education.

Circular

This is inform all faculty members that the Emerging Technology department is organizing a Two-days Faculty Development Program (FDP) titled "Course Content, Rubrics and Assessment Automation" on 17th & 18th March 2026 from 9:00 am to 5:00 pm in the ET Lab. The program aims to enhance faculty capabilities in integrating Artificial Intelligence tools for course design, teaching innovation, and assessment automation. Your participation will help strengthen our institutional efforts towards AI-enabled teaching, assessment innovation, and academic excellence.

All faculty members are encouraged to register for the program using the registration link provided below:
Registration Link: https://forms.gle/ziCRmZU5AT9cnSd57

Note: Lunch and high tea will be arranged for all participants on both Days. All must register and participate

g. Outcome attained

- The Faculty Development Program achieved the following outcomes:
- Faculty members gained hands-on experience in using AI tools for teaching and assessment
- Improved ability to design innovative and technology-driven course content
- Enhanced understanding of AI-based evaluation and question paper generation
- Awareness of advanced AI concepts such as RAG and Agentic AI
- Increased readiness to integrate AI into teaching-learning processes
- Strengthened digital competencies among faculty members
- Additionally, participants were provided with post-session support for up to 3 months to facilitate implementation of the learned concepts
