Objectives of the event:

The guest talk was organized as part of World Investor Week 2025 with the objective of enhancing financial awareness among women professionals and aspiring managers. The programme focused on empowering participants with practical knowledge and skills required for effective personal financial management.

The specific objectives were:
• To promote financial literacy among women professionals and students.
• To create awareness about budgeting, savings, and responsible financial planning.
• To provide insights into investment avenues and wealth creation strategies.
• To encourage informed financial decision-making for long-term financial security.

Brief description of the event

The Department of Finance, RV Institute of Management, in association with Central Depository Services (India) Limited (CDSL), organized a Guest Talk on "Smart Finance for Working Women Professionals" on 08 October 2025 as part of the World Investor Week 2025 celebrations.

The session was conducted in a hybrid mode, enabling participation from both on-campus and online attendees. The programme aimed to address the growing need for financial awareness among working women and future professionals by providing practical guidance on managing personal finances, savings, investments, and long-term financial planning.

The resource persons highlighted the importance of developing healthy financial habits at an early stage of one's career. The discussion focused on budgeting techniques, expense management, emergency fund creation, insurance planning, retirement preparedness, and wealth accumulation. Participants were encouraged to take ownership of their financial decisions and adopt a disciplined approach towards savings and investments.

The speakers also discussed the role of financial literacy in achieving economic independence and improving overall financial well-being. Special emphasis was placed on understanding risk-return relationships, selecting appropriate investment instruments, and avoiding common financial mistakes.

The session provided valuable insights into capital market participation, investor awareness initiatives, and the importance of responsible investing. Real-life examples and practical illustrations helped participants understand how financial planning can contribute to achieving both short-term and long-term goals.

An engaging interaction session enabled participants to raise questions related to investment planning, financial security, tax-saving strategies, retirement planning, and wealth management. The experts addressed the queries with practical suggestions and industry-based perspectives.

The programme concluded with a vote of thanks, acknowledging the contribution of the resource persons, CDSL representatives, faculty members, student coordinators, and participants for making the event informative and impactful.
