A Report on Project Based Learning

Faculty Development Programme

Tuesday, 26th February, 2019

Dr. Mike Dillon,
CEO, Institute of Productivity, UK

Report on FDP (Project Based Learning)

• • •

Introduction

A Faculty Development Programme was conducted on "Project Based Learning" on Tuesday, 26th February, 2019 in the College Workshop Hall at 3.30 pm. The faculty members of RVIM and other R V sister concerns participated in the programme.

Background

Dr. Purushotham Bung, Director, RVIM, welcomed and introduced Dr. Mike Dillon who is presently the CEO at Institute of Productivity, UK. To set the tone for the FDP, he showed a short video on how projects can be used by the faculty members to engage the students in their learning process.

Inputs from the Resource Person (Dr. Mike Dillon)

The resource person was Dr. Mike Dillon, CEO, and Institute of Productivity from UK.

He gave shared in detail the objective behind "using Projects to facilitate student learning" He showcased some pictures as evidence of how projects were used in colleges of Indonesia and Jakarta.

He also explained how this methodology benefits both the students and faculties. He also chalked out the process in which this methodology can be implemented in our institution.

Further he also emphasized on thinking differently and try to facilitate the students to focus on problem solving as in his words, "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's".

He said that the students should become the change agents. When the students do good projects and display them, the Productivity Centre gets strengthened. He wished that at least 20 projects from the students of RVIM in the upcoming year.

Major Takeaways

1. Projects are the best methodology towards learning professional courses.
2. Faculties need to involve and commit to the success of projects from students.
3. There should be a process of planning and implementing the projects.
4. Focus of the projects should be on problem solving
5. Ideal projects are the ones which are done in collaboration with industry players.
