The open access status of journals and articles (across all data types) may change due to publisher decisions or policies. J-GateNext will update access types accordingly, which may include shifts between open access, subscription-based access, or other models. These changes are determined by the publisher's evolving policies. J-GateNext will make reasonable efforts to update promptly but is not responsible for delays or discrepancies.
- Period of subscription: 06-05-2025 To 05-05-2026.

Period of Content Coverage: January 2001 - Current

Dear Sir,

Greetings from Informatics!

At the outset, we would like to express our sincere gratitude for your continued support and subscription to J-Gate over the years. It is a privilege to serve you, and we deeply value your patronage.

There is a slight increase in the renewal subscription fee over last year, reflecting the enhancements and upgrades we've made to the platform. We've migrated from J-Gate 2.0 (J-Gateplus.com) to the advanced J-Gate 3.0 (J-Gatenext.com), with significant improvements in several key areas:

1. Enhanced Content – J-Gate 3.0 now offers comprehensive content coverage, sourcing from a wider range of resources.
2. Early Online Articles – J-GateNext indexes the early online articles, thus allowing scholars to stay updated with the latest developments in their field. Researchers can access articles before they are officially published in print journals, enabling them to stay ahead of the curve.
3. Comprehensive Journal Description – J-GateNext provides a comprehensive description of the Journal which includes the Author URL of the Journal, history of the Journal, Indexed Period of the Journal and Journal Frequency.
4. Pre-print for Full Text – Access to full texts is expanded by linking articles to their pre-print versions.
5. Research Datasets – J-Gate 3.0 integrates references to datasets associated with journal articles, enhancing research utility.
6. Single Click Access to Full Text – The platform now provides automatic link resolution for articles with multiple access options.
7. Author-Related Enhancements – Users can filter authors by country and view detailed affiliations for both authors and co-authors for each article.
8. ORCID ID Tagging – Where available, we've integrated ORCID IDs for authors to support better citation and identification.
9. Mobile App – J-Gate's new mobile app offers the convenience of accessing the platform from anywhere, anytime.
10. Retraction Tracking – A unique feature to track retracted articles, ensuring the accuracy of research.
11. AI-Enabled Content Curation – It uses automated subject classification of documents using AI. The outcome is the superior relevancy in search results.
12. Dashboard for Analytics – J-GateNext helps the Librarian to have a quick glance at the current year usage data. The dashboard gives a real-time snapshot of the number of documents by document type in J-GateNext.
13. Usage Report Coverage - In J-GateNext, the coverage of usage statistics has been enhanced compared to J-GatePlus. A summary as well as detailed report of Usage is available to the Librarian for making decisions regarding subscription to various resources based on their usage patterns.
14. External Links Storage - Researchers can integrate the external literature ecosystem with J-GateNext by organizing external links within J-GateNext.
15. New Search Builder – J-GateNext provides more flexibility in building ground-up search queries with the new Search Builder. New fields have been added for Searching such as DOI and ISSN. A query editor is provided which allows the user to customize the grouping of search terms.
16. Enhanced Graphical Analytics – J-GateNext allows for a more comprehensive analytics module providing analytics related to Author, Country of Publishing Author (to analyze the author demographic distribution), Country of Publication (to analyze the publishing effort by regions), Institution, Publishers and Year of Publication for any search criteria

And much more...

We trust that these new features will greatly enhance your research experience with J-Gate. We kindly seek your continued support and look forward to receiving your renewal order at your earliest
