12. To seek suggestions from the members regarding continuous quality improvement.

The members were happy about the progress made by the institution on various fronts and gave following recommendations:

- Quality Paid Internships : Members emphasized the importance of prioritizing quality paid internships for students. Paid opportunities not only provide financial support but also reflect the value of their skills, boosting self-esteem and motivation. Such internships also enhance employability prospects.
- Encouraging Independent Problem Exploration
  Mentors are advised not to directly provide problem statements for student research papers. Instead, students should be encouraged to explore and identify problems on their own. This approach builds critical thinking, originality, and ownership of research, enhancing the academic value of their work.
- Outside Classroom Activities
  It was suggested that each subject should plan and conduct at least one activity outside the classroom. Such experiential learning opportunities encourage students to apply concepts practically and retain knowledge more effectively.
- Reinforcement Sessions on Research Methodology
  The panel recommended inviting Mr. Narahari Sir to conduct a series of reinforcement sessions on research methodology. These sessions would benefit both BCU scholars and RVIM students under MRSL, improving their academic rigor and research skills.
- Silver Jubilee Celebrations
  For the upcoming silver jubilee celebrations, it was suggested to form committees involving students, faculty, alumni, and former staff members. Activities should begin early, with the release of a souvenir during the inaugural. A video showcasing the institute's journey and achievements was also recommended.
- Bangalore Darshan : As part of student orientation, it was suggested to organize a Bangalore Darshan program . This will help new students connect with the city, build bonding among peers, and make the orientation process more engaging.
